Manuscript title: Capacity- and Compute-Matched Evaluation of Published BU-Net Components with Multi-Seed Development and Independent External Testing for Multimodal Glioma Segmentation

Article type: Original Research

Dear Editor,

Please consider the enclosed manuscript for publication as Original Research in Radiology: Artificial Intelligence. The study evaluates previously published BU-Net components under patient-level, equal-seed, capacity- and compute-aware development, followed by one frozen independent external-testing session. The work does not claim that RES or WC is a new component. Its contribution is controlled evidence about whether an apparent component gain persists after relevant capacity, compute, stochasticity, lesion-failure, and resource controls.

The final evidence statement and its radiology-facing relevance will be inserted only from the audited Gate J claim registry:

Required declarations

Complete author list: [AUTHOR CONFIRMATION REQUIRED]

Subject overlap: [AUTHOR CONFIRMATION REQUIRED. Describe all previously published, in-press, or under-review reports with overlapping patients, datasets, or experiments; explain what is different in this analysis; attach the required prior-report PDFs.]

Conflicts of interest and industry support: [AUTHOR CONFIRMATION REQUIRED]

Sole submission: [AUTHOR CONFIRMATION REQUIRED. All authors must confirm that this manuscript is not published or under consideration elsewhere.]

Dual first authorship or fast-track request: [AUTHOR CONFIRMATION REQUIRED; state “not requested” when applicable.]

The code, frozen analysis contracts, provenance records, and permitted derived artifacts will be released under the final repository release. Raw BraTS data will not be redistributed. The manuscript reports AI-assisted writing according to the journal policy approved by all authors and does not describe provenance audits as AI detectors.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,
